MISNAMING NATIONS ESTABLISHED HABIT

Titles Usually Oldest Relics of Humanity.

Washington.—The United States does not recognize Russia. Neither does Russia recognize "Russia," according to the United States Post Office department.

If an American wishes to order ever lar through a Moscow concern, the best advice is that he address the letter to the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics, in order to educate the world to the new name the Soviet government frequently carries out its threat to return all mail addressed to "Russia."

"Misnaming nations is one of our established habits," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington. "The following are the real names which well-known nations call themselves. How many can you identify? Misr, Eesti Vabariik, Suomen Tasavalta, Afrikijs, Iran, Die Republik Oesterreich, El Migdreb, Lietuva, Flalia.

"The accepted English names for these nations are printed at the end of this column.

"Since United States citizens do not call foreign nations by their native names, they take liberties with ours. When a representative of the National Geographic society left for the Trentino district, Italy, recently, he carried business cards which gave the society's name in Italian and the address as 'America.' Neither 'United States' nor 'U. S. A.' appeared on the card. In rural districts the peasants know of 'America,' but many of them have never heard of the United States.'

"The world habit of misnaming nations can be exposed. Some nations cannot agree on their own names so the world must fix on some form one of the discoverers of Americans naming Europe is that Switzerland is not Switzerland. If you are in north or German Suitzerland it is Schweiz, south or Italian Suitzerland it is Svizzero, west or French Suitzerland, Suisse. The map shows Luxemburg on the international fence between Germany and France. It is also on the lingual fence, possessing two names, Grand Duche de Luxembourg and Grosherzogtum Luxemburg. The Irish Free State also is known by the Gaelic, Saorstat Eireann.

Perpetuate Ancient Ideas.

"Excepting New world titles, names of nations are usually the oldest relics of humanity. Like all antiques, their origins are often shrouded in mystery. Frequently names perpetuate the opinion one tribe had of another in the days of barbarism. The official name of Germany today is Deutsches Reich. They call themselves Deutsch, which is the name English-speaking people have allotted to the natives of Netherlands. The French call them Allemandes, literally, foreigners. Slavs call the Germans 'Niemiec' which means 'dumb men.' They were 'dumb men' to the Slavs since they could not speak the Slav language. Slavs call themselves Slavianne, the intelligent people, but all Germans call them the Wende, that is, 'the strangers.'

"England reveals same dissension recruer loone. The Welch call the English the Saxon—the Gaels of Scotland call the English Sotch, the Irish, Sassanaich, and the Manxmen, Saxonnach. A Welshman is not a Welch or a Welshman, but a Cymry.

"In the Japanese scene for their Island kingdom Nippon, a geographic absurdity has been corrected by a modern geographic dividing 'Nippon' means rise and sun rising. Japan is the country of the rising sun. To whom could it be the country over which the sun rises? Not to Japanese certainly. Nihonjin. It is a Chinese name because the island lay where the Chinese saw the sun rise. But within the last century the international date line was marked down the center of the Pacific ocean. It establishes where day begins, according to earthly agreement. Therefore, Japan is the first major territory touched by the rising sun of a new day.

"American" Appropriate "America."

"Consider our nation's name 'the United States of America.' Americans proudly proclaim that that title does not stand for a nation which is an empire gathering vast territories to itself by conquest. Yet the present use of 'the United States of America' is one of the most remarkable and bare-faced conquests on record in the world of nomenclature. An American is recognized everywhere now as a native of the United States, but there are 75,000,000 people in Canada, Central America, Mexico and South America, who have just as much right to the name as the 125,000,000 citizens of the United States. We speak of 'the United States' as if there could be only one federation by that title. There are two other 'the United States'—Venezuela and Brazil.

"The United States has been euphrical even in the pronunciation of the name America. The French call it as 'Amerique' and the Italians 'America,' with the 'am' one syllable and 'erika' 'lance.' This is probably the style of the Florentine accountant, Amerigo Vespucci, who donated his Christian name to label two continents. But English-speaking Americans have changed all that. We use the 'A' as a springboard and take a running dive into 'merica.'

"The American versions of the nations enumerated earlier in this bulletin are: Egypt, Esthonia, Finland, Tunisia, Persia, Austria, Morocco, Lithuania, Palestine."

TRIPPED BY VANITY, MOAN OF SWINDLER

Fondness for Fancy Barbering Leads to Arrest.

Philadelphia.—Robert Whitman, alias "Lord Beaverbrook," and John H. Wiedemann, who has traveled under so many different names that the list looks like a telephone directory, sat in his cell in Moyamensing prison and told of some of his exploits in swindling wealthy women, while additional charges poured in from various parts of the country.

As he dallied over a specialty ordered meal, the alleged sleek of swindlers talked with detectives who arrested him.

"My vanity caused my downfall," he said. "The gumshoes knew I always made for a fancy barber shop to get a manicure and a massage as soon as I hit a town, so they just sat behind their papers in the hotel until I walked in. When the barber had finished the job, they pulled me. I knew it was all up."

There are many charges against "Lord Beaverbrook." The only one by a Philadelphia woman, so far, is made by Mrs. Frances Kemp, who charges the dapper prisoner swindled her out of $18,000. Police say there are at least fifty victims. Some of these women he married, some he enticed and some he both married and swindled.

A million dollars is the amount he is said to have taken from his victims. At present, however, Whitman claims to be "broke," despite the fact the detectives who arrested him say he offered to split $50,000 between them for his freedom. He later stated he lost $100,000 to gamblers in Atlantic City before coming here.

Police say his lordship has a long police record over the country, having served several years in prison. He is alleged to have jumped parole on his last sentence.

Relics From Ur Find Way to United States

Philadelphia.—A fine collection of statues, household belongings and other relics from that ancient capital, Ur of the Chaldees, have found a resting place in America.

These exhibits, which show how the arts were practiced over 4,000 years ago under the protection of the Moon goddess, are a prominent feature of the new wing in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania. The wing, which recently was opened, is dedicated to Eckley Brinton Coxe, Jr., in recognition of his services in adding the museum to ocntinent researches and excavations, and especially for his great interest in Egyptology.

The collection from Ur is a result of the joint expedition sent out by the museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum to excavate the famous old metropolis.

Woman Heads Road

New Orleans.—Mrs. Sarah Train Denburn, who is in the seventies, is a railroad president. She has succeeded her husband as head of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company.

140 People Crowd on Loneliest British Isle

London.—Britain's loneliest possession, the island of Tristan da Cunha, is suffering from overpopulation.

There are 140 persons on the island, which is nearly double the population of 20 years ago, and the food supply has run short. The island is located in the middle of the Atlantic on a line between the Cape of Good Hope and Buenos Aires. It is only two miles long and about two or three other smaller volcanic islands.

Most of the population consists of shipwrecked sailors and others they have brought from St. Helena. Potatoes are the chief crop, but they were a failure this year.

German Population Again Shows Increase

Berlin.—The population of Germany is again increasing. Experts believe the time is not far distant when Germany, like Italy, must again have colonies to house surplus inhabitants. The death rate of 12 per 1,000 population is about 2 per cent lower than in 1913 and less than half of the high peak in 1918, when 25 out of every 1,000 died.

SWAINS OF MEXICO WOO THROUGH BARS

American Jazz Fails to Cross Rio Grande.

Laredo, Texas.—Mingled here in the borderland where two races dwell and two civilizations meet are customs as old as romance and as new as jazz.

The Twentieth century marches jauntily down to the bewitching Rio Grande del Norte and there it stops, for jazz has not yet leaped the barrier. On the other hand, the Nineteenth century flits up to the same great river of the north, but does not altogether halt. The intriguing Latin tones of violin and guitar steal across to soften the din of brass and drum. The river separates two centuries, but cannot bar the music of the soul. Marriage, death and love give a definite picture of life on the strangely moving border.

Customs Centuries Old.

Love-making for the young Mexican follows a habit centuries old. He may become enamored of a fair senorita, but it is only after his father has explained the situation to her father that they may become formally acquainted. Pain would every Latin bombre pick eloquence as his pater's outstanding virtue.

The wooing must be done through the barred windows of the senorita's home until the engagement is announced. But when the moonlight filters through the leaves, even though the formal announcement is not yet, the young man may strum his trusted guitar under the beloved one's balcony and his recompense is a rose. Each day during the week just before the wedding he passes the home of the girl and places a note beneath her door.

The "gran baile" (grand ball) is the piece de resistance of the marriage, and in its amorous ilit there is no room for modern fox-trot nonsense. Even if the home have no flooring or furniture, the parents will manage to obtain lace curtains and they always will have a place for the "gran baile."

Fiestas are numerous, but none rivals the "jamaica" or Mexican fete of jollity. Decorated booths are erected along the sides of the plaza which is the public square. Each booth is in charge of senoritas, bedecked in colorful "chino poblano," a long dress of many hues, a mantilla of lace and a rose in the hair. One booth will be a temple of justice, with a senorita presiding as judge; another will have "lawyers" and a third will be the "coreel" or jail.

Then there are a number of young woman "policeman" armed with beribboned hoops, and when they catch sight of a young "caballero" they slip the hoop over his head and he is brought captive to the judge, who promptly fines him and then incarcerates him in the "coreel." At each step he pays a fine of 10 cents and must square all accounts before he is released.

Favor Bestowed by Flower.

There is the custom of the grand promenade, where flirtation is done by wholesale. The girls and married couples saunter along in an outer line on the walks of the plaza, while on the inner line, going in the opposite direction, walk the young gallants. Should the eyes of two meet and should the girl cast a flower it means that his acquaintance would be welcome, and he at once sets about to gain an introduction. These meetings frequently lead to marriage.

Plainly, jazz is not the life motif of the Latin. The classical dances of Spain predominate. The "Jarabe Tapatia" is to be seen in homes and theaters. It is danced by a lady in a long-skirted "chino poblano" and a caballero in velvet "charro," which fits tightly about the legs. "La Jota," the dance of the shawl, also is a popular expression of the love for rhythm. These Mexican dances and customs filter across the border to flavor and modify American social life along the international boundary.

Deriding Boss' "Mug" Costs $23,111 Verdict

New York.—Turning the picture of his boss to the wall because he did not want to look at his "mug" proved an expensive gesture for Marion Spelden of Chicheold, N. J.

The appellate division reversed a judgment for $23,111 obtained by Spelden in a suit for breach of contract of employment against Innis, Speiden & Co., importers and commission merchants. Spelden is the younger brother of C. C. Spelden, president of the company, and held a $10,000 a year position in 1918.

"We are satisfied that the discharge was entirely justified by the conduct and actions of the plaintiff," read the opinion of the court in part. "Testimony of unimpeached witnesses shows him to have been a disturbing element.

"In the presence of co-employees he turned the picture of the president of the company to the wall, saying he did not want to look at his 'mug.'"

Over 3,000 cities and towns have streets paved with portland cement concrete

Horse-and-Buggy Pavements Won't Do

Property owners in many towns and cities whose streets swarm with motor traffic are still wasting their money on horse-and-buggy "pavements" of bygone days.

These rough, bumpy streets are directly responsible for broken springs, cut tires, greater depreciation of cars, physical discomfort, loss of time, and many accidents involving loss of life or limb.

And the heavy expense of trying to keep worn-out, dangerous, horse-and-buggy streets in repair, added to their original cost, amounts to more than enough to pay for true, even, non-skid concrete pavement that has the maintenance built in.

So in the long run you are paying for concrete streets. Why not get them?

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy

ROCKS NEWS

Miss Getrude Ranson is attending the Normal at Farmville.

Plans are being made for a lawn party at the home of Mr. D. W. Dinkins on Saturday night, June 26th, for the benefit of Everready Club.

Miss Zella Inge is visiting her sister, Mrs. Robert Roach, of Roanoke.

Mr. Ned Almond, of Lynchburg, visited homefolks here last week.

Mr. Willie Hamilton, of Lynchburg, visited his people here last week-end.

Man Preaches 20 Years With Shelf as Audience

Samaun, Switzerland.—For twenty years an eighty-year-old man has been preaching in a little church here with himself as his congregation.

A century ago the village was half Protestant and half Catholic. There was only one church, so the two sects agreed to use the church during alternate Sundays.

The aged man is the last survivor of the Protestant sect. He still occupies the church every second Sunday. The Catholics for years have besought him to abandon use of the church, but he refuses.

Sees Diet Adding Inch to Next Generation

Atlantic City.—"The gain of an inch in height and a corresponding increase in weight may be looked for in the next generation, because of our better diet habits," said Dr. S. J. Crumbine, general executive of the American Child Health association.

Miss Miriam Birdseye, an extension agent in nutrition of the United States Department of Agriculture, agreed with Doctor Crumbine. She said that the children of the future would have longer and stronger bones, better muscle tone, clearer skins and brighter eyes.

HIXBURG

Mr. Sears Hix who makes his home in North Carolina is spending his summer vacation with home people and friends here.

Miss Watson, of Cullen, Va., is conducting a Sunday School Institute at the Baptist Church of this place, Friday night being the last one of this series of lessons.

William Walker, a colored man, of this place died on last Saturday, he had been in bad health for over a year. Also Uncle Tip Gilliam, one of the oldest citizens of this county died on Monday in 113th year of his age. Some say that uncle Tip is over 120 but I have often heard him say that he always had to nurse old Mr. Joel Coleman, he was 12 years old when Mr. Coleman was born and Mr. Coleman lived to be 94 years old and has been dead for over 10 years so his is one of the oldest.

STONEWALL

Mr Jessie Parish, of Florida, is visiting his brother, Walter Parish and family and other relatives in the county.

Mr. W. H. Drinkard was taken to St. Lukes Hospital, Richmond, last week for an operation.

Elkton Hamilton, of V. P. I., arrived last week to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd H. Hamilton.

Misses Blanche Thornhill and Sallie LeGrande are guests of Mr. J. A. Stratton and family.

Darlington Heights

Crops and gardens in this section are late owing to the continued dry weather. Really the farmers are wearing very long faces, some one said to one of the farmers that he must look on the bright side, said he told them every side looked dry to him.

Mr. Patrick Driskill, and Mrs. Minnie Woodall were recently married, and are residing at his nice country home near here.

Miss Anna Foster is spending some time with her uncle, Mr. Tom Anderson, of Fla.

Mrs Lelia Baker, and daughter, Lucille, are visiting relatives near Chatham, Va.

Mrs. Newt Dillon, is spending some time with her son, Leslie Dilon, of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Elto Womack, and children, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Swan, of near Five Forks, on Sunday.

IF YOU had a hired man that did this to your cream you would fire him quick. Yet your cream separator may be doing the same thing and you don't realize it. You can easily tell, without a cent of cost, if your old separator is robbing you or not.

Just ask us to bring out a new De Laval and run your skim-milk through it. Any butter-fat you have been losing will be recovered. Have this cream weighed and tested and you can tell exactly what you have been losing. Hundreds have tried this plan and have found a new De Laval saved from $5 to $10 a month.

The new De Laval is the best separator made in 48 years of De Laval manufacture and leadership. It has the wonderful "floating" bowl—the greatest separator improvement in 25 years. It is guaranteed to skim cleaner. It also runs easier and lasts longer.

Liberal trade allowances made on old separators.
